

MONTANA GROWN LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

Dive into Conflict Management

Local Government Center

Montana's local governments face challenges in preparing new leaders. Although supervisors hold some of the most critical roles in an organization, they often receive the least support.

The Montana Grown Leadership Academy (MGLA) was created to equip current and emerging leaders with the professional development needed to succeed in supervisory roles.

WHAT ARE DEEP DIVES?

Deep Dives combine in-depth, in-person training on one key topic with workplace application and a follow-up virtual session for reflection and continued growth. Topics rotate every six months, providing targeted, high-impact development based on participant needs.

Structure

1 day of in-person training, followed by a month of workplace application before a 2-3 hour virtual follow-up session.

Cost

$395 for the full program, which includes the full-day, in-person training day, one month of practical application with an accountability partnership, and the virtual follow-up session.

Dive into Conflict Management

With conflict management selected as a topic based on feedback from partners around the state, participants will:

-  Develop a comprehensive understanding of conflict in the local government workplace, including its sources, dynamics, and the influence of individual conflict styles, emotions, and communication patterns
-  Build practical skills and strategies to employ while navigating and mediating conflict
-  Gain practical tools and methods to foster psychological safety and a positive team culture within local government systems
