

What We Can Learn from Students Who Leave and Those Who Stay

Results from the Beginning College Survey of Student Engagement and the Freshman Student Persister and Withdrawer Surveys

Two surveys and the resulting studies were sponsored by the Office of Student Success during the past 12 months.

The Beginning College Survey of Student Engagement was taken by nearly 2,400 incoming MSU freshmen. Respondents were queried on high school educational experiences, curricular and co-curricular expectations of college, and expectations of MSU to provide opportunities.

The second survey polled more than 600 freshman students from 2010 who either “persisted or withdrew.” The results represent a juxtaposition of experiences and expectations during the first-year experience.

Workshop participants will learn about the survey finding outcomes and how we might better meet the expressed and latent needs of our freshman students.
