SCHOLARS SELECTED FOR THIS AWARD WILL BE REQUIRED TO

- Advise and/or mentor students
- Assist in faculty, curriculum, and/or program development
- Teach graduate and/or undergraduate courses designated by the host institution

Award Activity

The Agricultural University in Iceland (AUI) runs an M.Sc. program in the field of planning. The aim of the program is to educate skilled professionals who are competent in planning and designing the present and future built and natural environments based on the latest knowledge in the field. So far, the emphasis has been on urban planning while regional planning, including rural areas, has not received the deserved attention.

The selected scholar will develop and teach a new course in the M.Sc. program (about 8-10 ECTS-European Credits) in the area of sustainable regional and rural planning. In addition, the visiting scholar is expected to help with training students specifically in this area of research through M.Sc. thesis work. This would require help from the visiting scholar with how to frame the thesis topic and supervision of students that will allocate their thesis work to the theme, in addition to the development and teaching of a new course. Finally, there is a need to develop a plan for continuity of the course in question after the end of the scholarship period.

The duties assigned to the grant include curriculum development, supervision of 2-4 students writing their M.Sc. thesis, teaching the newly developed course the first time in addition to knowledge exchange with relevant teachers in the new course. The work is expected to be conducted in collaboration with permanent academic staff in the planning program at AUI and to some extent landscape architecture. Finally, the visiting scholar is expected to contribute to a plan for future delivery of the new course in collaboration with AUI staff. This includes training students to become sufficiently qualified in the field to contribute to future teaching. This includes as well building an international network with relevant contributors to the course in future.

Before selecting, think carefully about

- Why you are interested in as well as the best fit for a particular country
- Why your scholarship (and teaching if applicable) is relevant to the country (or how you will make it so)
- How this award and the country's priorities will align with your career plans and goals
- How you are prepared to immerse yourself in and adapt to the culture
- How competitive a given institution or country may be

“There is a Fulbright for everyone, but not every Fulbright is for everyone.”

Before selecting, think carefully about

- How MSU and your unit specifically will benefit from your Fulbright experience
- Which of your efforts at MSU would need to be replaced during your fellowship
- Which award cycle is most feasible
- How much fellowship time is feasible
- Whether the flex time option is necessary
- Whether estimated in-country costs are feasible

Thanks for your interest in the Fulbright U.S. Scholar Program. Explore current opportunities and Connect with Fulbright to receive important program updates and application resources. Register for a webinar today for more information and join an office hour to have your questions answered live by IIE staff.

The application components may vary depending on the type of activity you apply for: teaching, research, teaching/research combination, or professional project – as well as your discipline and specialization. Please see below for details on each component and whether it applies to your application.

Your application materials should be well-organized, working together to demonstrate why the project is needed and how you are prepared to accomplish it. Connect the dots for the reader: present information clearly to prevent the reader from (mis)interpreting to the extent possible. You may find the Review Criteria to be helpful as you prepare your materials.

Project Statement – required for all applicants

The project statement is your opportunity to explain the proposed project. This document addresses key elements of your project: what the project is, why it is needed, the objective(s) of the project, how you are prepared for the project and how you will accomplish it, the project timeline, and the outcomes and impact. It should complement the information you provide in your essays and CV/resume.

View Sample Project Statement Excerpts.

You will also be asked to provide a Project Title and Abstract. The Abstract is a 700-character summary of your project: it briefly describes the nature of the project, the plan (e.g., methodology), why the project is important/its impact, and the expected results. All applications are read in their entirety in the review and selection process. The purpose of this concise overview is to help the reader quickly understand the proposed project.

Project Statement Format Requirements:

- 3–5 pages
- Single-spaced, 12-point font, 1-inch margins. This helps ensure readability.
- You may use endnotes or footnotes and you may put the full citation for a source mentioned in your Project Statement in the Reference List to save space in your Project Statement. (Use any format for citations.)
- File type: Adobe PDF (recommended) or Word document.
- Note: If any non-English characters, images, tables, equations, etc. are used, you must upload your document as an Adobe PDF to maintain formatting.
- For Flex and Multi-Country: Your statement should clearly describe your plans and justification for each segment/country visit, including a project timeline.
- Do not include hyperlinks or direct the reader to content on external websites. Content to be considered in the application review must be contained within the application itself.

The Project Statement should include, but is not limited to, discussion of the points

Application Components

Requirements:

- ✓ Application Form
- ✓ Project Statement
- ✓ Curriculum Vitae or Resume
- ✓ 2 Letters of Recommendation
- ✓ Language Proficiency Report *(if required)
- ✓ Letter of Invitation *(if required)

Supplemental Materials:

- ✓ Course outlines or syllabi *(for teaching)
- ✓ Reference list *(for research)
- ✓ Portfolio submissions *(for artists, architects, and journalists)

Project Statement

- Must be clear on methods and logistics
- Must be high impact
- Must be a strong fit for the country
- Must be feasible

Letters of Recommendation

- Choose individuals who are most familiar with you and your work over titles
- Will have to discuss points such as the significance of your work, your potential impacts to the field and home institution, your potential as a cultural ambassador, etc.

Letter of Invitation

- Can be required, preferred, or optional
- Email introductions are sufficient
- Be specific about your planned activities and how the host would benefit
- Should convey enthusiasm about and familiarity with the applicant
- If no specific host institution is listed, use resources such as OIP, MSU Fulbright alumni, scholarly networks, and Fulbright points of contact to initiate contact
- Reach out to institutional contacts before summer

U.S. Peer Review Criteria

Training, background, and experience

- Application demonstrates training, credentials and active professional standing in the field necessary to complete the project, as appropriate for the career stage, home institution/employer type, and teaching and administrative load (if applicable).
 - For applications in the creative and performing arts and journalism: Portfolio material(s) support the proposed project, technical skills, and the maturity of artistic direction.
- Application demonstrates language proficiency or adequately addresses alternative(s) – if required or recommended in the award.
- Application demonstrates an appropriate record of service to academic/professional community and home institution/employer.

U.S. Peer Review Criteria

Quality of project

•The project is feasible, innovative, intellectually rigorous, and well-written, with sound, appropriate methodology; the project addresses any local, political, and/or other issues that may arise. In addition, the project can be understood by individuals in other disciplines. Application demonstrates the need for the project to be undertaken in the specified location.

- Teaching projects: Application demonstrates experience teaching the subject(s), innovative and effective pedagogical approaches, and syllabi/course outlines support project. (Syllabi are not required to be tailored to the proposed host institution, unless specified.)
- Research projects: Project is clearly designed and will contribute to the existing body of work on the topic. Methodology is detailed, and addresses aims and objectives.
- Professional Project: Project demonstrates professional experience, relevance to the host country, and is clearly designed. (Professional projects do not have a defined research objective or question.)
- Teaching/Research, Flex, Multi-Country (if applicable): Clearly articulated plans and rationale for allocation of time for each activity and/or grant segment.

U.S. Peer Review Criteria

Project's potential impact, outcomes, and benefits

- Application demonstrates relevance and currency of project to the discipline.
- Application clearly describes plans to feasibly disseminate results (if applicable).
- Proposed project exhibits potential for impact, which is significant, broad, and sustainable in discipline, at their home institution and community, and to the applicant's professional development. The project shows considerable engagement with the host institution and community.

U.S. Peer Review Criteria

Cultural Preparation

- Application demonstrates the ability to be adaptable, culturally sensitive, and collegial.
- Application demonstrates the ability to serve as a cultural ambassador for the U.S.

U.S. Peer Review Criteria

Previous Fulbright Scholar Awards

- Applicant provides compelling justification for prior Fulbright grant(s). Preference will be given to candidates who have not had previous Fulbright Scholar awards, especially within the past ten years.

Veteran status

- Preference is given to veterans of the U.S. armed forces when other factors are equivalent.

Diversity and geographic distribution

- The Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs seeks and encourages the involvement of people from traditionally underrepresented audiences in all its grants, programs, and other activities and in its workforce and workplace.

The Power of International Education

The Fulbright funding program of International Education

Post-Selection

After you are awarded a Fulbright

- The fellowship may not be deferred (but serving as an alternate is an option)
- Let the practical preparation begin!
- Highly recommended to consult with tax expert
- IIE handles visas/paperwork

Fulbright Support at MSU

Why institutional support is needed

- Participants incur additional costs overseas (e.g., schooling)
- Awards only cover in-country costs; stipends were not meant to replace salary
- Administrators may perceive fellowships as costly to the institution and may be reluctant to pay salary, benefits, and any replacement costs when an individual is absent

NEW Internal Fulbright Award

(Still in its very early stages; details and how to apply coming soon)

- Supplemental salary support for tenure-track/tenured awardees
- Salary support plus fringe benefits up to .5 FTE for non-tenure track awardees
- Potential to cover instructional replacement costs for all awardees who teach
- On a case-by-case basis, with case-by-case conditions

Fulbright Scholar Liaison Role

- Review your application materials for responsiveness and competitiveness
- Liaise with IIE on your behalf
- IIE does not review applications, but can consult on certain things, such as award specifics, country/region priorities, etc.
- Consult on development of your internal Fulbright award application post-selection
- Answer your questions and continue building out internal supports
